Girl Is Still Missing;
Probe Varied Reports

Boston Newspaper Says
She'll Be Returned In 24 Hours

BANKER IS NAMED AS "GO-BETWEEN"

Harwich Financier Said
To Have Conferred
With Five Men

(By Associated Press)
BOSTON, May 5.—The Boston American says in a copyright story that Margaret "Peggy" McMath, who was kidnapped from her school in Harwichport, Tuesday, will be returned to her parents within 24 hours. The American says a person well known to the McMath family was the "brains" of the plot.

"No gangster or racketeer had any part in it," the American says.

Police "Laying Low"

State police and investigators, the paper adds, "are deliberately "laying low" until the child is returned," and Daniel Needham, Massachusetts commissioner of public safety, in charge of the search, "has instructed his detectives to make no move toward prosecution until Peggy is home again."

The paper says a Harwichport man, "well known to the McMath family, instigated the plot," as an easy way to obtain a huge ransom from the wealthy grandparents in Detroit.

HARWICHPORT, Mass., May 5.—

A report was current here today that Ralph E. Fox, Harwichport banker was visited by five men in an automobile last night and that he drove away with them, possibly to negotiate for the return by her kidnapers of 10-year-old Margaret "Peggy" McMath.

Snow, who is the head of the Cape Cod five cent savings bank and who was described earlier in the day by a representative of the family as being the logical man to raise any ransom that might be demanded, declined either to confirm or deny the report.

Reports Seeing Car

The report that Snow was visited by strangers last night was given credence by Paul Morris, principal of the local high school, who said that as he left a hall in which a high school play rehearsal was being held, a car containing five men drew up beside him. He said a man "with a cultured voice" asked him directions to Snow's home. He

CHURCH LEADER
GIVES ADDRESS

Raymond McLain, Cleveland, at Young People's Dinner

"Christian youth will be concerned with removing the causes of sordidness from the world," declared Raymond F. McLain, Cleveland, director of religious education and young people's work for the Churches of Christ in Ohio, when he spoke at a supper meeting held by the young people of the Salem Christian church Friday evening at the church.

McLain used for his theme "Growing in Knowledge" and he discussed knowledge of one's God, knowledge of one's self and knowledge of one's world.
"An individual cannot be a complete self until God is a part of one's experience," the speaker pointed out, and he continued, "A knowledge of God should be a standard for measuring success or failure."

"Knowledge of one's self involves the ability to create an ordered person organized on the level of high ideals. Knowledge of one's world involves becoming constructively acquainted with it.

"Success in youth's program should not be counted by numbers, finances or organization but by growth.

Albert Hanna was toastmaster.
The program included these numbers: Piano duet, Misses Esther Numaw and Ruth Moff; play
"Amanda Make Believe" by a cast of Salem High school students. The players were: Misses Dorothy Wright, Louise Hixenbaugh, Jean Harwood, Jean Scott, Helen Palmer and Charles Stewart. Charles directed the play; vocal solo, Harold Ludwig, with Miss Moff at the piano; reading, Miss Mary Ruth Green.

Mary Reynolds had charge of the worship service. Sixty persons were in attendance, including representatives from the East Palestine Christian church.

COX WILL GO TO ECONOMIC MEET

Ohioan Will Be U. S. Delegate To World Conference

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 5.—President Roosevelt's selection of delegates for the London world economic conference took more definite shape today with authoritative word that one member will be James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and 1920 Democratic presidential nominee.

His name had figured in speculation previously, but this was the most definite assertion in quarters that should know, that a decision had been reached. Cox has declined to comment and White House announcement is awaited.

It also was said that Ralph W.
Morrison of San Antonio, Texas, financier and ranchman who was a heavy contributor to the Roosevelt-Garner campaign, will be asked to become one of the American representatives.

A White House invitation to Rep.
John McDuffie of Alabama, chairman of the house insular committee, to go to London was declined.

Secretary Hull is expected to head the delegation, at least at the start.
Others mentioned as likely to be members are Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state; Chairman Pittman of the senate foreign relations committee; and possibly Chairmen Doughton and McReynolds of the house ways and means and foreign affairs committees.

LISBON, May 5.—The Milk Garage Corp., of Orwell, C., an Ohio corporation that has been operating a tank milk truck and tank trailer from Ohio points to a Pittsburgh, Pa., distributing plant had to pay $248.37 for an Ohio truck license here after W. M. Crawford, an inspector attached to the bureau of motor vehicles, stopped the truck as it was being driven through here.

The company purchased a Pennsylvania license for the truck and trailer, but failed to procure an Ohio license, although the concern, which operates a fleet of 150 trucks, has an Ohio charter. An officer of the company came here Thursday afternoon and obtained license plates from the automobile office at the court house.

The bureau of motor vehicles has launched a drive against Ohio corporations that have purchased Pennsylvania plates for their equipment instead of Ohio plates.
Fleet owners have declared it cheaper to purchase Pennsylvania plates.

KEEP WAGES UP,
IS ROOSEVELT'S PLEA TO C. OF C.

Urges Government Supervised Production and Competition

START IT NOW, IS PRESIDENT'S PLAN

Broad Legislative Proposal For Industry Is Contemplated

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON, Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, May 5.—The nation's business was pointed today by President Roosevelt to higher wage scales and a government supervised control of production and competition.

The hopes of the President, which will be supplemented shortly by a broad legislative proposal to carry them into effect, were outlined in general terms in a brief address last night before the chamber of commerce of the United States.

Legislation Planned

Today his advisors who have been working for weeks, brought to completion legislation designed to bring about this new order in business.
Government sanctioned trade associations to govern production, wage and competition agreements are contemplated.

This proposal probably will be made a part of the public works bill which the President is framing to stimulate business in a counter attack upon deflation.

Placing great emphasis upon his words as he spoke before the business leaders last night, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"It is essential, as a matter of national justice, that the wage scale should be brought back to meet the cost of living and that this process should begin now and not later."

The employers of American workers applauded; the President hesi-tated as if the more to emphasize his assertion.

Then he gave in a few hours his plans to "bring order out of chaos."

His Order Minorities

"In almost every industry," he said, "an overwhelming majority of the units of the industry are wholly willing to work together to prevent overproduction, to prevent unfair wages, to eliminate improper working conditions. In the past, success in attaining these objectives has been prevented by a small minority of units in many industries. I can assure you that you will have the cooperation of your government in bringing these minorities to understand that their unfair practices are contrary to sound public policy."

Hold Inquest In Fatal Auto Crash

EAST LIVERPOOL, May 5.—An inquest was being held here today by Coroner Ernest R. Sturges of Wellsville in the death of J. Nesly Porter of Kenilworth, W. Va., who was fatally injured when his automobile collided with a machine driven by C. A. Smith, of Chester, W. Va., ten days ago.

Sixteen witnesses were heard when Sturges opened the inquest Wednesday with six more being scheduled to testify when the hearing is continued today.

Porter, former West Virginia state senator, died in the City hospital here after his car collided with that driven by Smith, president of the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company, at the intersection of West Fifth and Jefferson sts. on April 28.

Smith is being represented at the inquest by Attorneys Jason H.
Brookes of East Liverpool and W. B.
Moore of Lisbon.

Actresses Modeling for Sweet Charity

Being their bit in the sweet cause of charity, Tallulah Bankhead, stage and screen star (left), and Mrs. Lionel Barrymore, members of the thespian "royal family," are pictured as they acted as models in a recent benefit fashion show in New York. Miss Bankhead is wearing a novel black and white evening dress with flower-trimmed short sleeves. Mrs. Barrymore is attired in a striking afternoon ensemble of horizontal and vertical stripes.

Maintain Wages, President Asks in Plea for Recovery

President Roosevelt made three requests of industry in his address before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States last night.

1. Maintain wages at their present level and increase wage scales in conformity with the rise in commodity prices.

2. Bring "order out of chaos" in the industrial system by cooperative action against unfair methods of competition and "cut-throat prices."

3. View recovery in terms of the nation rather than in terms of a particular industry.

Some sentences from his brief address were:

"It is ultimately of little avail to any of you to be temporarily prosperous while others are permanently depressed."

"Our national economy must be expressed in terms of the whole rather than in terms of the unit."

"During the last few weeks we have witnessed a slight, but definite upturn in most industries, a simultaneous rise in most commodity prices."

"It is essential, as a matter of national justice, that the wage scale should be brought back to meet the cost of living and that this process should begin now and not later."

"During the last four years what previously had been considered an orderly industrial system has degenerated into one of the highest disorder."

Hanoverton, mother of Mrs. L. B.
Harris, Salem, died suddenly at 9:30 this morning at her home, following an illness of a few hours. Heart disease is given as the cause of death.
Mrs. Sinclair was seemingly in her usual health when she arose this morning and had prepared breakfast. She was stricken shortly after the meal.

Born in Yellow Creek township, Mrs. Sinclair lived there until she was six years old, when her parents moved to Hanoverton, where she had since made her home. overton Christian church and Pleasant Valley chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs.

HELENA, MINING
TOWN, HIT HARD

Sweeps Away Lights,
All Means of Communication

(By Associated Press)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 5.— Twenty persons were killed and more than 200 injured by a tornado that swept three west-central Alabama communities shortly before dawn today.

Helena, a mining village of 700 population, bore the brunt of the storm, with 13 dead and nearly 100 injured.

Other Communities Hit

The other communities struck were Demopolis, two killed; Centerville, two killed; Brent, three dead, and Adamsville, Union Grove, Coalmont and smaller communities where a number were injured.

The storms added to the toll of May storms in the south, which swept Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi. Two were killed in storms in the lower Mississippi valley yesterday, one at Tallulah La., and one near Pine Bluff, Ark.
Alabama's death list was expected to increase during the day as several of the injured were in such critical condition that physicians said they had only a slender chance to recover.

Relief facilities of Birmingham and nearby cities which last year were taxed to capacity as disastrous tornadoes killed 300 were functioning within an hour after the word of the storms had been brought here.

Twister Is Brief

The twister lasted but a moment and was gone, leaving dazed and terrified strikers residents without means of communication or lights.

The body of one of the dead, Mrs.
N. D. Thomas, wife of a deputy sheriff, at Helena, was found lodged high in the branches of a tree, yards from her home.

MAY 27 IS DATE
FOR POPPY SALE

Legion "Auxiliary" Will Distribute Flowers On Streets Here

Salem will observe "Poppy Day" this year on May 27, the Saturday before Memorial day. It was announced today by Mrs. H. P. Litty, chairman of the poppy committee of Charles H. Carey unit of the American Legion auxiliary.

Memorial poppies, to be worn in honor of the World War dead, will be made available to everyone in the city by volunteer workers of the auxiliary organization of the workers is going forward rapidly under Mrs. Litty's direction and the unit expects to have poppy sellers in all parts of the down town district throughout the day. The flowers for the sale have been ordered from Sandusky Soldiers' and Sailors' home where they have been made by disabled World War veterans.

"Poppy day is the day for personal tribute to the men who lost their lives in the country's service," auxiliary officials point out. "It is a day when all can show that they still remember and honor the sacrifices made by those who defended America during the great war crisis, and that they are carrying on for America in time of peace. The poppy is a patriotic symbol which means honor for the dead and service for the living.

Gets the Crumbs

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Foreign delegations coming in here to join Mr. Roosevelt's bread line. Italy's and Oklahoma's got in the same day. Man named Jung sent by Dictator Mussolini to see what "Lady Bountiful" held in store for Italy. Man named Rogers sent by Dictator "Attila, Bill" Murray. Sent to pick up any loose crumbs that might fall locally.

Congress disgraced themselves something terrible yesterday. There was for three solid hours they didn't pass a single bill, not even an appropriation bill. Then they realized how slow they were going and woke up and passed a little dinky thing only appropriating one hundred million for the insurance companies. Hardly worth monkeying with.

Going to hear the president lecture the United States Chamber of Commerce, was to broadcast it, but that was called off. Looks like one of those affairs for men only.

Yours,

Will Rogers

THE RAILROADS

In the first sentence of his long-anticipated railroad message to congress, President Roosevelt states the problem. The sentence reads:
"The steam railways still constitute the main arteries of commerce in the United States."

The sentence answers comprehensively the common question as to why the government should be concerned so seriously with the fact that railroads which are known to have been mismanaged and driven into a corner by the avarice and stupidity of their own management cannot make money.

It answers the contention of those people who have over-simplified the national transportation structure by saying that railroads have been outmoded by newer forms of transportation and that they must go the way of all other obsolete institutions.

Last, it meets the objections of critics who have charged that the federal government, in trying to prevent the financial collapse of some railroads, has been pouring sand into a rat-hole. If railroads "still constitute the main arteries of commerce in the United States", they still are good investments.
Other institutions which have dependent on this fact in tying up great funds of the people's wealth in railroad securities are dependent on the government's attitude in the next generation.

The Roosevelt program, analyzed roughly, proposes to do two things for railroads. First, and most easily comprehended, there would be appointed a coordinator who would give railroads advantage of the same central authority which is being practiced over the affairs of the federal government. It would provide the railroads with the single viewpoint of their common destiny they have lacked during the era of development—a process so robust and unrestrained in some of its passages that it is convenient to forget it in the present era of dependency.

Second, the national administration would do for railroads what it may do for business in general.
It would lighten certain restrictions which have been judged necessary—restrictions which prevented shrewd management from utilizing a public utility to take undue profits from the public. Obviously, since the opportunity of taking undue profits has been destroyed by a general decline in patronage, there is no danger implied in the proposal.

This, in outline, is the newest program to do something for railroads.
Because it promises direction in stead of further restriction and because it is presented as a solution to a condition so grave that railroad management has been forced to abandon its uncompromising positions, it seems to offer more than its many predecessors which have been tried without success.

A CATALOG DESCRIPTION

The effect of inflation on the country and the individual is vague.
It could not well be otherwise, if one happens to believe in its power.
He cannot possibly know how its benefits will be achieved, because he never has seen them. Neither in personal experience nor in history can we find a concrete example of an inflationary process of the kind which shortly will go into operation in the United States.

But the philosophical citizen will not be distressed by lack of evidence. He will look about him, observe the almost universal confidence of his fellowmen in what is to be attempted and adjust himself to circumstances by professing belief that it can be done. If there is to be inflation, there must be confidence in it. It is the apparent will of a majority of the people that the experiment is worth trying.

What, then, is inflation expected to do? From the summary of a veteran Washington correspondent, Mark Sullivan, the following effects are borrowed and republished.
The writer's Republicanism, one can be sure, tempered his enthusiasm. His fairness, on the other hand, probably produced as nearly a factual list as could be obtained.

Four steps will be taken, Sullivan believes. When the course has been completed there will be prosperity.
After the first step the depression will disappear rapidly, although the first step is viewed as a "primer," rather than as an integral part of the program.

The first step's aim is to raise prices, which will be attempted by enlargement of credit facilities in banks. If this works, the mechanics of currency inflation will not be called into play. If it doesn't work, there will be an attempt to start the creaking machinery of rising prices with one, or more or all of the methods of currency manipulation provided in inflation legislation.

Assuming that prices will be raised by one of the instruments to be placed at President Roosevelt's command, one considers the next step. Business will struggle to its feet again and employment will be increased. This phase of reconstruction seems to have started already, partly in anticipation of deflation, partly as a result of more fundamental causes.

The third step has to do with government. An increasing national income will mean increasing revenue. The third step will straighten out governmental finances and provide a surplus for public works, which will take up the rest of the unemployment slack. The fourth step, of course, leads straight to the ultimate objective—perfect prosperity. President Roosevelt's long-range program must be consulted for further directions.

What Others Say

HELPFUL SENATOR ROBINSON

The part played by Senator Robinson of Arkansas in the dramatic events that are crowding the pages of current history is worthy of comment. He is the Democratic leader of the Senate, and the right-hand man of President Roosevelt in carrying into effect the pledges and policies of the party. Upon Senator Robinson falls the duty of advising the President on legislative strategy in pushing through the party program. He discharges the equally important duty of marshalling the forces of the majority, interpreting poses of legislation, sponsored or approved by the President, and directing the tactics whereby this legislation is transformed into law.

Senator Robinson's leadership has been earned by long service, special fitness, personal qualities, and other factors which place him at the front. But his influence has been increased by his growth in statesmanship. He is an American first of all. His loyalty to the Democratic party goes without saying, but his aim is American public welfare, which sometimes requires legislators to submerge partisanship in cooperation by all parties for the nation's sake. Republicans who have supported President Roosevelt's emergency program have found it easier to do so because of the absence of partisan rancor in Senator Robinson's tactful management of Administration measures.

Partisanship will develop as the Administration presses forward. The cleavage between the parties is inevitable and healthy. Opposition in matters of policy is useful. Senator Robinson, when in opposition to Republican Administrations, clarified many matters of public importance, and he is the last to complain of opposition based on differences on political opinions.

All the lines tighten and as the Democratic party develops its policies the leader of that party in the Senate assumes heavier responsibilities. His political fortune recognize in him a formidable but a fair fighter. His party followers have confidence in his leadership.
The Administration is fortunate in having him for its champion. —

Don't Neglect Heart Pain

Nothing is more startling than to witness the sufferings of a person stricken with an attack of "an-gina pectoris." That that experience the other day when a traveling on a train. The victim was seized with sharp, agonizing pain over his heart. He became pale, prostrated and soon complained of a pain shooting down his left arm.

Within a short period of time the attack subsided, his color returned, and he felt no pain. Upon talking with him, he confided that he was subject to these attacks.
They terrified him and he hesitated going to a physician because he was afraid that he was suffering from some form of serious heart disease.

This man was correct in the diagnosis of his ailment. Of course his attitude concerning the doctor was wrong. Too many individuals dread visiting a physician for fear of being told there is a serious ailment. This is a foolish attitude.

Angina Pectoris
Angina pectoris is a painful afflic-tion of the heart. The sufferer may be seized with an attack at any time. It may occur while walking, standing or sitting. Though the pain usually passes across the shoulder and down the left arm, it may travel to the right arm or remain localized in the chest. Occasionally the victim becomes sick at the stomach, and is in severe distress.

I do not wish to give the impression that pain around the heart is of necessity a sign of heart disease. The heart is a complicated mechanism supplied with a network of nerves. Such factors as worry, emotional distress, anger, excitement, and mental and physical fatigue, irritate these nerves and produce disagreeable sensations in the region of the heart. Symptoms from these causes are not serious.

In angina pectoris it is probable that the main nerves of the heart are involved. Repeated spasms and irritation of the heart muscle lead to a damaged heart.

The sufferer from angina pectoris must not hesitate to seek medical advice. Often the pain and discomfort may be due to a minor disturbance which can be easily cured when the cause is discovered. It is wise for these individuals to practice the rule of moderation in all things. Sudden and strenuous exercise must be avoided.

Emotional Stress a Factor Severe attacks can be prevented by avoiding those factors that influence the disease.

Emotional excitement, particularly anger, is a factor to be considered when we seek a prevention of the attacks of angina pectoris. The quiet, unruffled person rarely succumbs to this disease and his attacks, if he has any, are of a mild and non-distressing nature.

Attacks of angina pectoris may occur after heavy meals. It is especially liable to occur after a meal, when sudden effort, exercise or emotional excitement interferes with the digestion of food.

Individuals who show any signs of angina pectoris should avoid severe exertion, either of the mental or muscular type. They must have an adequate amount of rest and be careful of the diet. They must observe the rules of hygiene, taking an abundance of fresh air and sunshine.

Day

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, May 5 — Thoughts while strolling: So far Broadway has not captured the charm of the old beer garden days. Or was it over-romanticized? Floyd Gibbon's young brother — a banker. Ladies named Judith nearly always express dignity. Larry Anhalt, the Essex, Ct. hermit, unshaking.

One word description of Mark Sullivan—grayish. That Fifth ave. correspondence school that teaches one how to be charming. Peggy Hoyt's leg-of-mutton sleeves. The Friars have the most tuneful of the town's club songs. There—I rubbed elbows with R. Fulton Cutting. But I'll still be easy to meet.

Clyde Beatty, a Chillicothe, O. boy, who made good in the city. Dorothy Stone is a ringer for Lillian Harvey, of the movies. A scream and a thud. And I am afraid to look back. Stage hands who group at back doors with lingo of baby-sitters, tormentors and teasers.

One of my favorite people—Bill Hamilton. Ring Lardner's son, John, wouldn't be bad in the movies. Those kitty-faced boarding school girls budding around with Broadway types. The inquiry of a pigeon's head. Grand Buff Bruno Lessing is scribbling from Europe.

That was a swell name a letter writer to Time called people who deny interviews—"turnquots". Nobody can look so flimsy as Genevieve Tobin. Or as composed as Bernard Baruch. Stowkowski, the orchestra conductor. His name sounds like a frightened yell at someone about to step into an open coal hole.

James Moore, the Dinty of the cafe, was recalling customs of old-time bartenders. There was one in a 34th street place who wore long underwear with tight draw strings around the ankle. In making change from the cash register he would be apparently puzzling over figures by scratching his head. In reality he was letting a quarter slide down his neck.

In the fleet of bartenders at the old Gibson in Cincinnati there was one left mixologist known to blades of the town as Flash McCracken. He was a one man show with running fire chatter and liquid juggling. One of his feats was to crack an egg and with one hand execute a twist of the wrist that separated the yolk from the white. And then toss the foamy mess in the air and catch it behind his back.

The most picturesquely named bartender was "Silver King" of the Knickerbocker. His cocoon came from his silver hair in natural marcel. To see him "rainbow" a pousse cafe was to be held a triumph in true artistry. He is still around, living when I last heard from him on Tenth ave.

There was one subtlety the old time bartender invariably exploited. When a customer stepped into a bar and inquired for, say for example, George Ade, the bar-keep would exclaim: "He just went out!" Often he would rush from behind the bar to the door and whistle down the street to catch him. More than likely Ade or whoever was asked for had not been there in weeks. There never was a saloon that whoever you asked for had not that moment departed.

Park Avenue went "western" with a bang and yippee this past season. Phoenix, Ariz., is the focal point for distribution to desert resorts. A prep and fashionable school for girls are in easy radius. Chaps, galleon hats, fiery bandannas and high-heeled boots are the mode. Among New Yorkers gravitating around Phoenix were the Gene Tunneys, William Thaw II, the Wm. H. Vanderbilts and the Elliott Roosevelts.

Speaking of Clyde Beatty, he dropped in the other day to leave a

BY RALPH LONG, JR.

The high school music classes under the direction of Miss Grace Orr presented a musical program in observance of National Music week yesterday.

A chorus of 150 voices sang the first three opening numbers, "The Bubble" by Friml, "In The Luxembourg Gardens" by Manning and "Follow The Road" by Wilson.

Estella Clarke then sang two numbers entitled "In The Garden of Tomorrow" by Deppen and "Out of the Dawn" by Donaldson.

A boys chorus entertained with "Bombay" by O'Keefe. A solo by Harold Ludwig, "Sunny Lou," by Zamecni and "Asleep in the Deep" by Petrie, followed.

A selected chorus sang "Sylvia" by Oley Speaks. Those making up the chorus were:

Soprano—Martha Wells, Rita McNicol, Julia Woods, Rhoda Lee, Ada Swinbank, Mary E. Loutzenhiser, Estella Clark.

Alto—Betty Jane Lewis, Elizabeth Hineley, Doris King, Mary Ruth Greenisen, Rachel Cope, Anna Kleon.

Baritone—Charles Russell, Arnold Nye, Charles Freed, Clair King, Keith Harris.

Anna Ruth Vincent concluded the program with "Little Mother of Mine" by Burleigh.

The accompanists were: Lillian Mundy—(Soloist, selected chorus); Dorothy McConner—(Full chorus, Girls chorus); Loh Dillworth—(Boy's Chorus).

Due to the demand for a number of encores the noon hour was reached before the program was concluded. Several of the concluding numbers were postponed until 8:30 a. m. Tuesday, when another assembly will be held.

The Hi-Tri held a steak fry yesterday instead of the regular meeting.

Junior High

The civics class, under the direction of Miss Ward, put on a voting play before an eighth grade assembly Thursday. Jane Metzger gave an introductory speech in which she outlined the qualifications of a voter and told how Salem was divided into precincts and wards. Then followed a scene in a voting place or poll. Kenneth Leiper was presiding judge; Bobby Parks and Bobby Bowen, clerks; Robert Hostettler, challenger and Jean Kingsley, interpreter. Geo. Gibson was the precinct policeman on duty. Virginia Hunter and Walter Melishka created disturbance near the polls and were taken care of by the policeman.

Jean McCarthy, Ross Shasteen, Wade McGhee, Anna Mary Lease, Marie Weigand, Ralph Fratilla, Bob Batlin, Jack Bilen, Ray Mellinger, and Loretta Greenisen played the part of voters, each in a special character role. Several of them were challenged and prevented from voting because they did not have the qualifications for a voter. Voting booths were furnished by the city for this play.

W. J. Springer, principal of the high school, spoke to an assembly of junior high boys yesterday concerning the junior high track meet which is to be held today.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of small worries and anxieties, with small obstacles, delays, postponements in business and also some minor perplexities and verations or annoyances in personal relations. HASNT BEEN IDLE
MACDONALD SPEAKS
HUXLEY DEAD

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1933 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

ON SUNDAY night, President Roosevelt, through newspapers and radio, will "give an account of his stewardship thus far." The country will admit that he has not been idle.

The next government step, expected, not yet officially announced will be "a revolutionary bill to mobilize and control industrial production through trade association action."

If, without interfering with the noblest, "individual initiative," industries could be regulated, kept from the overproduction that produces panic, and from such frightful waste as in the oil industry, squandering national resources, that would be admirable.

ON THE other hand, the government, before undertaking control of all industries, should look carefully into the railroads, which have been governed for some years by the government interstate commerce commission. The condition of the railroads is not too gay.

Our neighbor, Stalin of Russia, will be interested in our proposed control of industry by government, and will doubtless call us "copycats."

WHAT LITTLE INFORMATION, if it be information, Americans get concerning "copycats" at Washington comes from Premier MacDonald and President Roosevelt. It seems hard to believe, that the United States will agree "to a modification of the gold embargo." President Roosevelt would hardly allow Englishmen or Frenchmen to draw out United States' gold while forbidding Americans to have any. It is suggested also that the United States will arrange to tie up the pound and the dollar so that "Britain will keep her export trade in the face of the devaluated American currency."

Must we have inflated dollars at home without getting the benefit of them in trade abroad? That would be too bad.

FURTHER, you are told there will be "a general revision of war debts," and Britain's payment due the United States on June 15 probably will not be paid.

Foreign countries have told us how many chips and what kind of guns we might have, which of our new battleships we must "junk." If they are now to tell us what we may do with our dollars, while at the same time escaping payment of their debts, you will give them credit for doing a complete job.

DR. LEONARD HUXLEY is dead at the age of 72. He was a son of Thomas Henry Huxley, the great biologist, and his death reminds you that talent really is inherited, under favorable conditions.

Dr. Leonard Huxley was a distinguished editor, biographer and poet. His two sons, Julian Huxley and Aldous Huxley, are both brilliantly successful men, one as a biologist, the other as a novelist. The three Huxleys who descend from "the great Huxley" are fortunate in that they inherited intelligence, without inheriting a fortune that so often stupefies intelligence. Our American "great men" of industry and finance concentrate on dollars. Their sons, as a rule, concentrate on self-indulgence and pleasure.

A FORMER United States senator questions the right of the government to make Americans give up their gold. His amount of gold, only $120 worth, would not upset any gold basis, but he proposes to test in court the legality of an order that says to Americans:

"Gold is too precious a metal for Americans and they will kindly bring it all in."

No other country has done this, and many Americans, having obediently deposited their gold, which was, by the way, their property, ask themselves if it would not have been better to make foreign nations that owe us $10,000,000,000 in gold dollars pay part of that.

NEWS FROM NEARBY DISTRICTS

COLUMBIANA

The Young Ladies Bible class of the Presbyterian Sunday school was delightfully entertained Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. C. Ogleve, east of town, with Mrs. E. A. Peters as associate hostess. The devotionals were led by Mrs. Elba Wilhelm and roll call was responded to by giving current events. The business session was in charge of the new president, Mrs. C. E. Dewalt.

A short program was enjoyed. The first two chapters of the study book, "Lady Fourth Daughter of China" was presented by Mrs. Dewalt, Mrs. Roy Guy, Mrs. R. E. Brungard, Mrs. J. V. Gleeson and Mrs. C. P. Esterly. Mrs. R. J. Barrow favored with two piano solos, "Trauerliche" (Schumann) and "First Waltz" (Durand). Miss Margaret Stewart, accompanied by Mrs. Barrow, sang "Lilac" and "Look Into Your Garden". Lunch was served by the hostesses. The next meeting, June 5, will be at the home of Mrs. G. G. Pinkerton with Mrs. Elba Wilhelm as associate.

Present Cantata

A two-part cantata, "The Dawn of Spring" by Richard Kuntz was a feature of the program at the May music festival of the Columbiana Sorosis club held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Elmer T. Coyle, West Park ave.

The cantata was given by a ladies' chorus composed of the following: Mesdames C. D. Strickler, C. R. Todd, C. H. Shontz, Virginia Felger, S. L. Morris and Roy E. Weaver. Mrs. Coyle was the accompanist. Mrs. Coyle and Mrs. Felger also favored with a piano duet, "Tilliana". Poems and music to spring flowers were also enjoyed. "CLEAR ALL WIRES", now playing at the State theater, is an interesting improbability, spun around foreign newspaper correspondents.

Lee Tracy Is Star
Lee Tracy, the star, as a high-spirited, though none-too-honest representative of a Chicago paper, has a made-to-order part. Most of the picture's burden falls on his rather nervous shoulders and the fact that it is so amusing, is greatly to his credit.

When he has no news to send home he makes it up. Sent to Morocco, he is entertained by the chief and lives as a king in luxury, while his paper, believing him to be kidnaped, offers a large reward for him.

would do a limited business.

He said the commission also was of the opinion it was not right to charge a small town hotel the same permit price as a large city hotel.
He said the group recommended a graduated scale.

The attorney general was asked for a ruling on what type of permit should be required from agents or brokers for out-of-state breweries.
Dixon said it was the consensus of the commission that a distributor's permit, costing $1,000, should be required from the agents.

The delivery of beer directly to homes by out-of-state breweries was discussed but no action was taken. However, the commission decided to send each permit holder a blank once a month and have him list the amount of out-of-state beer he has sold and from what brewery it was received.

KEEP WAGES UP, ROOSEVELT PLEA

Urges Government Supervised Production and Competition

There is still a lot of work to be done in organizing legislation to accomplish this program. It involves a relaxation of the anti-trust laws. Also, apparently, it involves substitution of the 30-hour work week bill already passed by the senate and now before the house. Discussing the national situation, Mr. Roosevelt told the chamber there has been "a slight but definite upturn in most industries with a simultaneous rise in most commodity prices."

Wages Lag Behind
"Past experience indicates," he added, "that when the price level begins to rise after a long period of deflation commodity prices, wages which have been previously curtailed lag behind the rise in price levels."

"I ask you, who represent in all probability the majority of the employers of the nation, to refrain from further reduction in wages of your employees and I ask you also to increase your wage scales in conformity with and simultaneous with the rise of the level of commodity prices insofar as this lies within your power.

Snow, asked whether he had been visited by five men, and, if so, whether they were representatives of the kidnapers said: "I refuse to confirm such a statement."

TOBIES TRIMMED IN 2ND DEFEAT IN CITY LEAGUE

McFEELY'S STEAL OF HOME IS FEATURE

Calkins' Pitcher Stars; Two Games Booked at Park Today

A steal of home by Pitcher George McFeely provided the deciding run as the classy Calkins Chicks aggregation handed the United Cigars a 4-3 setback in a thrilling Class A softball league battle at Centennial park field Thursday.

Also Stars on Mound

With the score knotted at 3-all, McFeely, who had walked then advanced to third on a single by Glen Oesch, sneaked into home to win his own ball game in the fifth inning. He held the Tobies scoreless for the next two frames, allowing only five safeties during the entire game.

Salem China and Famous Dairy teams, clashing in the second game, battled to a 6-6 deadlock, the game being called at the end of the seventh because of darkness.

The Cigars took a 3-1 lead in the second stanza after three misplays by his infield got McFeely into serious difficulties. The Chicks tallied another marker in their half of the third and the fifth opened with the Tobies still in front by a one-run margin.

Cigars Make Triple Play

The Chicks got to Ralph Gregg to send Mohr in with the tying run after which McFeely pilfered home with the winning marker.

The first triple play of the year was recorded in the first of the seventh when the Chicks filled the sacks with none out. Oesch lined to Kennedy who stepped on third for a double play then tossed to Gregg who tapped McFeely on his way to third base.

It was the second defeat of the week for the Tobies who previously had ranked as one of the league's strongest outfits.

The Salem China came from the rear to tally five runs in the sixth and seventh innings to even the count in the nightcap. The Dairy hit Fynes hard for four runs in the second.

Two games are on tap for this evening, the American Legion opposing Mullins in the first at 8:30 while the Deming company meets Schafer Billiards in the second.

WAGGLE MAY SET NEW HURDLE MARK

Close Race In 880 Seen As Big Feature; Riedy Favored

Salem High against the field—that's the way the dope stacks up again as the Quakers make their annual stand in defense of their off-won championship title in the annual Columbiana county track and field meet at Reilly athletic stadium Saturday.

Salem Heavy Favorite

Red and Black clad luminaries are heavy favorites to outscore athletes from five invading schools and romp off with the crown for the eighth time in ten years. East Palestine, Lisbon, Leontonia, Columbiana and Wellsville are the Quakers' rivals in the classic.

A classy program of track events, features of which will probably be the high and low hurdles, and thrilling mile and half mile runs, will be run off before fans. Preliminaries are scheduled to begin at 1:30 with finals slated at 2:30.

Palestine Main Contender

East Palestine, annually Salem's foremost rival for the meet banner, is again viewed as the Quaker's leading contender but the proteges of Coach William Ward are not expected to give those of Floyd W. Stone much difficulty.

In last week's night relay carnival the Quakers galloped off with championship honors by tallying 65 points while the Brown and White finished a poor fifth with 15 1-4.

The thrills in the mile run will be provided by Frank Theriault (Salem) and Morrison (Wellsville), two lads who tangled in the nocturnal carnival. Theriault placed second in the mile during the relays, running the race in 4 min. 45.9 sec., while close behind was Morrison who gained fourth place.

McFeely, Riedy Clash

An even more spectacular battle to the finish is anticipated when George McFeely (Salem) and Riedy, stout hearted East Palestine runner meet the half mile. Either of these lads, or perhaps both, may crack the record for this event which now stands at 2 min. 5 sec., held jointly by Leonard Perkins (Salem) and Bucher (East Liverpool).

Riedy bettered this record when he broke the tape in 2 min. 4.2 sec., in the night relays while McFeely's time was only a split-second slower.

Waggle, fast-running hurdler from Leontonia, is regarded as a potential record-crasher in the 120-yd. high hurdles. He has week, crack in 16 sec. flat and last week, favored to cop the finals in the relays, lost out when he tripped over a barrier knocked down by another runner. Greenisen of Salem is expected to make a close race of it.

Russell May Set Mark

About the only other record which appears in danger is the shot put mark of 45 ft. 3 3/4 in., held by Wayne Russell, Russell, who set this mark a year ago, will be back to try to better his own record with a heave of more than 46 ft. The giant Quaker star has tossed the iron ball better than 48 ft. and has hopes of registering a heave of 50 ft. before he concludes his scholastic career.

William Pauline, Salem's long-distance broad jumping star will seek to register a leap of more than 21 ft. 3 1/2 in. to erase from the record books a mark held by Waldo Ward (East Palestine) since 1924. Pauline outered this record with a mighty leap of 21 ft. 9 in. last year but protests against the mark were filed by Coach William Ward of Palestine, the record-holder's brother.

Ward's protest, incidentally, is allowed in rulings obtained by The News from W. D. Griffith of Ohio State university and H. R. Townsend, Ohio interscholastic athletic commissioner.

A large audience of fans is expected to be in attendance at the meet. George Thompson of Akron will be referee and starter.

THREE FOOTBALL BATTLES BOOKED IN OHIO TONIGHT

New Brighton to Oppose Liverpool, Canton To Invade New Castle

Football holds the interest of fans in several Northeastern Ohio cities during the next two weeks with three contests involving scholastic rivals in spring gridiron duels being scheduled tonight.

Potters Play New Brighton

An ultra-attractive program is on tap at Patterson field, East Liverpool, tonight when the Potters oppose gridders from New Brighton, Pa. The contest will be refereed by All-American Howard Harpster, Carnegie Tech coach.

In addition to the grid fray exhibitions in javelin-throwing and high jumping will be given by Joe Beggs and Henry Spencer, national known stars, while Franklin Hood, former Pitt grid hero, will give an exhibition in forward passing.

McKinley at New Castle

Canton McKinley travels to New Castle, Pa., for a battle with the Keystone State eleven tonight. New Castle recently defeated Campbell Memorial, 20-0.

East Liverpool also plans to play a second night, spring game with Alliance as the tentative opponent. The Potters had planned to oppose Salem High but action by the latter's board of education halted any plans for a spring game for the Quakers.

Another duel booked tonight involves teams tutored by two brothers at Ambridge, Pa. Campbell tackles the Ambridge team with Dick Barrett as coach of the former and his brother Benjamin, the mentor of the Pennsylvania eleven.

Struthers Plays South

The big battle in the valley is slated May 13 when Struthers and South resume grid relations after a lapse of seven years at South. Some 5,000 fans are expected to view the game.

Struthers engages Farrell May 19 on the Pennsylvania gridiron. Cheney may play Sciencerville May 29, but the fray is not yet definitely arranged.

Nation's Race Fans Off for Louisville; The Big Derby's On

BY ALAN GOULD.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5.—The thoroughbred horse-race fan that parades to the post at Churchill Downs tomorrow afternoon in the 59th running of the Kentucky derby possesses real equine beauty and color, unusual racing courage and intersectional class—in fact all the essentials to the kind of "hoss race" that sends the pulse soaring, plus the paradox of a public favorite not expected by many, observers to finish inside the money.

Situation Perplexing

In recent years at least, there have been no more perplexing situations or more heated horse-racing arguments than those confronting thousands of turf followers, moving into the bluegrass today from all parts of the country, they came to join the "hard boots" in a brave attempt to chase the turf blues away, sustain the glamour of America's most romantic horse race and get their share of thrills out of wagering $2 or maybe a little more on another tussle between east and west.

They arrived by train and motor by airplane and on foot, to find W. R. Coe's Ladyman, juvenile star of 1932 and winter book Derby favorite clinging precariously to the position of "the horse to beat", at odds that shifted from 2 to 1 to 3 to 1. They discovered, too, that with startling disregard of this, few experts pick the eastern ace to finish better than fourth. Instead, the form-students indicate a preference for the winning chances of Mrs. William Crump's Head Play, a handsome chestnut colt, Tennessee-owned but backed by considerable Kentucky cash and sentiment.

Head Play Is 4-1

Head Play, already 4 to 1 and going down, may go to the post a favorite if it develops there is no further reason to be concerned over an injury to the colt's right hind leg, cut in a recent race. The sore spot has healed nicely, apparently to the complete satisfaction of trainers, and no trace of lameness has been shown in subsequent workouts.

Ladyman, on the other hand, has failed to convince most critics he is anything more than a sprinter or that the colt's legs are altogether sound despite his excellent season-year-old record, his early season victory at Havre De Grace and a subsequent private trial over the derby route in the good time of 2:06 and a fraction.

Experts May Be Wrong

The experts may be wrong and the public correct. If so, it wouldn't be the first time, yet, until they actually see it, most observers will not believe a son of Pomey has the ability to go the full Derby distance. They recall too vividly the 1926 Derby when Pomey himself, likewise a champion as a two-year-old and subsequent favorite in the Kentucky classic, faded abruptly after challenging Bubbling Over and failed to even place. Blood, in short, is expected to tell and history to repeat itself.

Kentucky's sentimental support of Head Play may be due partly to the fact this handsome colt has been more on display at the Downs, in contrast with the pampered care and secrecy surrounding Ladyman and his stable-mate, Pomponious.

Despite the withdrawal of such early favorites as Repaid and Swivel, the Derby lineup looks the fastest and best-balanced brought together in several years, whether or not the winner jeopardizes the record of 2:01 4-5 made two years ago by Twenty Grand.

To Aid Italian Air Armada

These two Italian submarines, the Balila, and the Millirile, which recently arrived at Boston Navy Yard, where they are shown, will be entrusted with the job of patrolling the waters of the North Atlantic along the route which will be followed by the Italian air armada on its flight to the United States. The fleet of 24 seaplanes, under the command of General Italo Balbo, will fly from Orbetello, Italy, to Chicago, where they will be exhibited at the World's Fair.

Idlehour Farm and triple winner of the Derby, will be carried by Broker's Tip, 10-1.

The eastern contingent has Kerry Patch, 1932 Belmont futurity winner, as well as Ladyman, but may have to place its main reliance in the stretch drive upon the Catawba stable's Mr. Khayyam and Good Advice or on the speedy Sarada, owned by F. A. Griffith of Rochester, N. Y., and sired by Sir Gallant had 3rd, the daddy of Gallant Fox.

TACOMA, Wash.—After a long battle with a 26-pound Tyee salmon, E. J. Sands hauled him into the boat, found his hook in the fish's tail.

BUDDY HANFORD KILLED IN FALL

Famed American Jockey Is Fatally Injured In Pimlico Friday

(By Associated Press)

BALTIMORE Md., May 5.—The American turf has lost one of its finest jockeys in the death of Bernard (Buddy) Hanford.

The 21-year-old riding star, fatally injured at Pimlico yesterday when his mount, Apprehensive, stumbled and fell during the running of the sixth race, brought home 146 winners last year, a total exceeded only by Johnny Gilbert and Hank Mills.

He had been riding about four years, first for Roy Pollard and then for Preston Burch, to whom he was under contract at the time of his death. He died in a Baltimore hospital of a multiple fracture at the base of the skull soon after Apprehensive's fall had tossed him under the charging hoofs of the field.

Homers Difficult In New Stadium; Yanks Play Tribe

NOW that the Cleveland Indians are permanently settled in their new home at the Cleveland stadium the question arises is just how cheap will home runs be. From the ex-round trip clouds will be at a pre-last season it seems that the hit that was given at the close of the game. Most all the hits that would have been home runs at old League Park were changed to lazy fly balls at the stadium. Outfielders were roaming everywhere and batters were robbed in a wholesale manner. This year the plate has been moved back 20 feet, thus making the possibility of home runs even more remote.

The point of interest this season will be how will the heavy sluggers be affected by the Indians' change from small League Park to the big field at the stadium. Practically every American league team has at least one man on its roster who is almost any time he comes to bat, liable to hit one out of the park. League Park was made to order for such hitters.

The New York Yankees are the first club to be taken into consideration for practically every man on their club packs a home run blow. Of course the really dangerous men Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

The compiled records of the 1932 season show that Ruth hit 41 home runs and Gehrig 34. However, these two were benefited by the short right field bleachers in the Yankee stadium and that is where they hit most of their home runs. The right field stands in New York are only 295 feet from home plate down the foul line and in the new stadium the distance measures 320 feet and it is 478 feet to the centerfield bleachers.

The question is will that distance be great enough to stop the "Home Run Twins". Will Gehrig suffer more in the new park because he hits most of his homers via the line drive route. If so Lou's average in Cleveland should have a decided slump this season. Ruth on the other hand hits his home runs high into the air. If the wind conditions are favorable to the Babe, he will have a lot of balls floating into the bleachers. An adverse wind will be a severe setback. However, it is going to be interesting to see what the new stadium will do to these sluggers. Babe and Lou are going to find out May 5, 6, and 7, when the Yankees play their first series in Cleveland.

THE CHALLENGE OF LOVE

by WARWICK DEEPING

SYNOPSIS

The smug little town of Navestock jolted on, rustily, clumsily, contented to jog along in a rut, resenting the interference of anyone who sought to change its mode of living. The people, therefore, were very antagonistic toward young Dr. John Wolfe, assistant to the town's blundering old Dr. Threadgold, when he tried to better conditions. The young physician realizes also the pitiable plight of the inhabitants in the hands of the old doctor, who cautions him to be more sparing in the use of "necessary" medicines. Wolfe, stunned at the unsanitary conditions he finds everywhere, prepares a map showing the unhealthy districts. Mrs. Threadgold comes upon the map and considering Wolfe's researches "gross disloyalty and underhand spying," suggests that he be warned of a terrible calamity should typhoid fever or cholera strike Navestock. Not wishing to appear superior, Wolfe turns over his findings to Threadgold to do with as he pleases. Later, the old doctor tells his wife a convincing tale of how he put Wolfe in his place. She urges him to burn Wolfe's papers. Discouraged and longing for someone to talk to, Wolfe visits Jess, who urges him to stay and fight. Then gazing into each other's eyes, they are strangely embarrassed. Josiah Crabbe, the one inhabitant of Navestock who has the courage to live up to his convictions and is hated for it, is keenly interested in Wolfe.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE
It happened that week that Dr. Threadgold received a number of personal calls from various influential men in Navestock. They did not come to consult him about their health, nor did they confess that they were perturbed about their pockets. They came one at a time and at intervals of a day or so, to sit in Dr. Threadgold's capacious leather chair, and lodge complaints, each after his fashion.

"If you can't show your old friends and patients a little more consideration, we shall go elsewhere for our physic," thundered Turrell.

Old Hubbard, grocer and haberdasher, was the first, with his head like a big white bladder of lard. He was nervous and a little apologetic, and perspired excuses and explanations, and commented on the heat. "You must really excuse me, Dr. Threadgold, sir, but I really can't put up with it any longer. Here's this young man of yours making my tenants grumble sir, and setting people talking. Of course if you, sir, like to suggest any alterations in those cottages of mine, sir, that's a very different matter. I should be proud, sir, and obliged. But this inquisitive, masterful young man, sir, I really can't put up with it."

Two more tradesmen followed. Mr. Hubbard—Butler, the butcher, whose slaughter house was an abomination, and Harrington, the dairyman, who kept four cows in a dirty stable at the back of his house in Bridge st.

"Come down yourself, sir, and look over my place. Why, it was clean whitewashed all through last month. I'm not going to have this chap of yours sniffing round my premises. He ain't got the ways and manners of a gentleman." Later in the week Mr. Zachary Wilks strolled in and treated Threadgold to a quarter of an hour's thin cynicism. Wilks was a little, acid man, who had a knack of setting people's teeth on edge. "My dear Threadgold, I thought I should like to ask you whether you hold yourself responsible for all the ingenious inquisitiveness of this assistant of yours. Really, a most pushing and enthusiastic young man. Expect to find him in my scullery any day. Of course, if he has your instructions I have nothing more to say. But I don't like it. I don't pretend to like it. It will spoil our good feeling, you know. One does not like to quarrel with a man who has brought all one's youngsters into the world."

Jasper Turrell followed these lesser men, reserving his thunder until the last. "Look here, Threadgold, we have known each other a good many years; what do you mean by inflicting us with a meddlesome cub like this chap Wolfe? I don't take it kindly. What's more, I'm not going to stand it. If you can't show your old friends and patients a little more consideration, confound it—we shall go elsewhere for our physic." These successive attacks had worked Montague Threadgold into a state of intense irritability. He was furious with Wolfe and with a weak man's fury that bubbles and chafes in the pot of its own cowardice. Turrell's bullying tone brought the little man to boiling-point.

"Let me tell you, Mr. Turrell, that this young man has caused me infinite irritation. There is no need for any gentleman in Navestock to dictate to me. I have tried patience and advice but without result. Mr. Wolfe is going."

"Then you are a wise man, Threadgold. The fellow is doing you a great deal of harm."

"My dear sir, I know."

"He will smash up your practice if you keep him another six months."

The brewer left Threadgold in a state of simmering excitement. He rushed upstairs, hesitated, rushed down again, ascended once more, and burst into the drawing room, where his wife sat reading at one of the windows.

"Sophia, I can stand this no longer. I'm not going to have Wolfe here another day."

"My dear Montague, don't get so excited about a mere jackanapes!"

"I hate and loathe the very sound of his name."

"Then do what I tell you; get rid of him at once."

"Exactly—quite so. And as to those papers of his—"

"What! You haven't burned them yet?"

"Bring them up here I'll see that it is done."

And done it was, in the black Georgian grate of the Prospect House drawing-room. Mrs. Sophia herself removed the pile of white paper shavings, and the big yellow fan that served as a screen Wolfe's statistics disappeared in smoke, and the map remained as so much fluttering ash.

John Wolfe had had a long morning, and had dropped in to eat a lonely meal in the Turkey-carpeted dining-room. He had a country round that afternoon.

There was the freshness of falling dew in the air when Wolfe rode back beside the windings of the Wraith, and saw on the distant hillside the dark shapes of the Moor Farm cypresses. He had seen Jess but once since that hour in the orchard, and she had been a little shy of him yet with a frank shyness that was very alluring. She had smiled less, looked at him less intently, and spoken as though words had come to have a new and deeper meaning. There had been just a flash of pride for him in her eyes, something dearer than sympathy.

Wolfe had found her a name by which he could name her to himself. "The Maid of Honor," that was what he called her. He looked at her and thought of her as a man of the spear and sword thought of the one woman who was his "Lady." She spread courage and cleanliness and strength about him. No mean thing could come out of his heart or mouth. "To the uttermost, and without fear," that had been her message.

As John Wolfe rode through Navestock he could not help being struck by the quaintness and beauty of the old town. The calm of a summer evening lay over it, and the threads of blue smoke from the chimneys disappeared in a golden haze. The red brick became a deeper, richer red. Casements caught a glimpse of the river, black under the sunset. Trees and chimneys stood out against the western sky. Here and there, down passageways and narrow streets, Wolfe caught a glimpse of the river, black under the shadows of black roofs and gables. For an instant the little town was transfigured like an unclean and crippled beggar carried suddenly into Paradise. (To Be Continued) comes to this country in bales. The leaves are small and tightly packed. Each bale contains about 40,000 leaves.

DOMESTIC TOBACCO
is stored in huge wooden hogsheads. Each hogshead contains about 1000 pounds of tobacco.

A flavor that neither possesses alone

Turkish tobacco is to Cigarettes what Seasoning is to Food Early in the 17th century, tobacco seed from America was taken to Turkey. Different soil, different climate, different temperatures night and day, and different farming methods produced an entirely new tobacco—small in size, but very rich and aromatic.

This tobacco is known generally as Turkish tobacco; but there are as many varieties of Turkish as there are kinds of apples.

Four certain spots are famous for the quality of their Turkish tobacco—Xanthi and Cavalla in Greece; Samsoun and Smyrna in Turkey. And it is principally from these places that our buyers get the Turkish for Chesterfield.

These Turkish tobaccos are blended, in just the right amount, with Domestic tobaccos. It is this blending and cross-blending of just the right amount of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos which gives Chesterfield a flavor that neither possesses alone.
